Dear Donald:

Betty and I are happy to be home but somehow or other I still had to turn around and go to Japan for a week and at the end of this week I go to Santiago, Chile, and then at the end of April Betty and I will be going to Israel.

When we were in Paris we tried to contact Emily, but the phone number and address that we had were no longer the real ones. If you have the current phone number or address, kindly let me have it so that when I am in Paris in October I can contact her.

Your room is always ready for you and I think the project to work on this time, if you are so inclined, is the rehabilitation of my grandfather's old tools, some of which are sort of interesting.

Whenever you wish to learn a little bit about erythroid culture techniques, let us know.

From time to time, I think that I might volunteer to take on the Marshall Islands project. So far, I have not mentioned this to anyone in the Department or the Director's office. How much of an involvement with the Marshall Island program do you really desire?

Your version of the riddle that I posed to you is a reasonable paradigm. The real answer is to show that it is out of this world.

In making your plans to come to Brookhaven later in the spring or early summer, do not come the first week of April nor the first half of May since we will be elsewhere. Please let us know when you will be coming.

Warmest personal regards from Betty and me,

Sincerely yours,

Eugene P. Cronkite, M.D.
